

IRDR Australia

Home Institution:

Bushfire and Natural Hazards Cooperative Research Centre

Time: May 2016 – November 2016

Updated on Your Work:

- Australian and New Zealand Disaster and Emergency Management Conference, May 2016, Queensland - the CRC is a key sponsor of this conference and had researchers speaking on the program about natural hazards management and resilience.
- CRC Research Advisory Forum, May 2016, Hobart - this forum discussed progress of the CRC research program, with 120 researchers and end users from partner organisations from Australia and New Zealand.
- Australian Journal of Emergency Management, July 2016 – this academic journal was relaunched with a new design, and new partners, including the CRC as the lead partner.
- CRC Annual Conference, Brisbane, August 2016 – Bushfire and Natural Hazards CRC and the Australasian Fire and Emergency Service Authorities Council host the largest emergency services and public safety conference and trade exhibition in Australasia. Many CRC researchers presented their latest findings to the emergency service industry of 2300 attendees.

Future Plan & Activities with IRDR:

International Day for Disaster Risk Reduction, 13 October 2016. A free public forum at RMIT University. The focus of this International Day for Disaster Reduction is on preventing deaths.

CRC Research Advisory Forum, Canberra, October 2016. This forum at the Australian National University will discuss the progress of the CRC research program, with more than 100 researchers and end users from partner organisations from Australia and New Zealand attending.